STUDENTS EXCEL IN PACKAGING TRAINING

PIABC CERTIFICATE IN PACKAGING – BEST STUDENT AWARD 2014/5

Amy Johnson has been awarded the PIABC Best Student Award for the Level 3 Certificate in Packaging in 2014/5, delivered by the IOM3 Training Academy. She was presented with her award by Dr Helene Roberts FIMMM, Group Marketing Director, at Graphic Packaging International during a Diploma in Packaging Technology module, held at the factory last year.

Amy was recruited by Ultimate Packaging Ltd as a trainee Packaging Technologist back in 2013 and was eager to grow as a member of the packaging industry and develop her skills within the company. She commented that the certificate course gave her a vital insight to the wider world of packaging technology with access to the base knowledge she needed to develop in the workplace.

After completing of the certificate, Amy was promoted to Packaging Technologist in a growing team and, in the future, she intends to complete the Diploma in Packaging Technology qualification with the same success she gained through the Certificate. She has plans to continue to contribute to the achievements of Ultimate Packaging Ltd and encourage the development of their budding young team.

PIABC DIPLOMA IN PACKAGING TECHNOLOGY – BEST STUDENT AWARD 2014/5

Wai-Gong Lee, RAP's Senior Technical Support Specialist, has been named Best Student for 2014/15 by the awarding body PIABC, in recognition of his outstanding performance in completing the Level 5 Diploma in Packaging Technology qualification.

Wai achieved the best overall result for the year in courses delivered by the IOM3 Training Academy and his award was presented at RAP's new low-carbon offices in Wimbledon by Christopher Waterhouse FIMMM, Chair of the London and South of England Packaging Society.

Graham Williams, CEO at RAP, said, 'We are all very proud of Wai's achievement, but not at all surprised. He is a very professional and highly regarded member of our team, and this award represents the excellence that RAP aspires to.' RAP Founder, Julian Money added, 'I'm delighted at Wai's success, which reflects RAP's commitment to investing in design quality and technological support for all our customers.'
